INTRODUCTION

The 2011 edition of the North American Region African Elephant Studbook is a living document produced for elephant and other animal professionals. This studbook was developed to track all African elephants current, historical and future, which enter or are born into the captive population in North America. This information will be used for statistical analysis, for planning cooperative breeding programs and as a communication tool.

This edition is current through 11 February 2011. Although every attempt was made to be as accurate as possible, assumptions were made and errors due exist. For example, unless the elephant was captive born all of the birth dates are estimated. Therefore unless more accurate data was provided, many animals were arbitrarily designated as two years of age at the time of capture and/or importation. Additionally many animals had fragmentary records and word-of-mouth and individual memory had to be relied upon to complete the data. The 2011 edition of the North American Region African Elephant Studbook is incomplete historically and presumably of living animals too. Every effort will be made in subsequent issues to include those animals imported into this region and inaccuracies will be rectified as more information becomes available from those who read and study this document.

Great effort needs to be placed on identifying and listing elephants living but not included in this studbook. These animals are important to developing a self-sustaining captive population in the North American Region as well as statistical analysis. A last group of animals that must be identified are labeled Lost-to-Follow-Up (LTF). Some of these animals were exported to institutions on other continents and more information on these individuals may be available in future editions. Some of these are animals known to have been born or imported into North America and have "disappeared" from our records.

I encourage anyone with information, comments, corrections or questions regarding this North American Region Studbook for the African elephant to contact me. Your interest and assistance will be greatly appreciated. I also request that I be contacted in the event of an elephant death, birth or location change. It is my wish that subsequent editions of the studbook include more complete and accurate information.

Description of Data Fields

Studbook ID - This field indicates a number assigned to each animal in the studbook. This is a permanent number for this animal. New animals recorded into the studbook are assigned chronological numbers by date entered.

Birth Date – This field indicates the animal’s date of birth. Wild caught animals have an estimated birth date. Question marks indicate not enough information available to make an assumption of the age.

Sire/Dam – This field indicates the parents of the animal. “Wild” signifies that the studbook animal was wild caught and its parents were unknown wild individuals. Numbers indicate studbook designation of the parents and that the animal was captive born.

Sex - Male
Female
Unknown or unverified

Event – This field describes the purpose for moving the animal from location to location.

Location – This field documents movement of the individual animal from its first location to its current location or last known location. Location is not always the owner of the animal. The animal is not listed by its owner but by its physical location. A listing of locations by their assigned abbreviation can be found under the Institutional Listing section.

Local ID - This field is the animal’s assigned ISIS number, accession number or some other type of official designation at its specific location. “Unk” indicates the information was not available.

Date – This field documents when the change of location took place. Some dates may be estimations based on information provided.

House Name – This field designates the “House” name of the individual animal. Many animals have been given more than one name as they move from location to location.

Subspecies – This field indicates subspecies when available or thought to be known.

Breeder - This field designates that the individual animal was responsible for the birth of at least one offspring.

SSP – This field designates that the individual animal is a member of the Association of Zoos and Aquariums’s Species Survival Plan (SSP).
